Change your entire organization's feeling

from

“have to go to work”

to “get to go to work”

Do you find that your team doesn't communicate or get along well?

Have you noticed tension in your department when the pressure's on?

Is there a lack of understanding among different generations or cultures?

Organizations that are looking to increase satisfaction and morale have turned to us to strengthen these skills and more across all levels of their workforce. From customer service resolution to emotional intelligence to coaching and feedback, one of our focus is to change that attitude from “have to go to work” to “get to go to work.”

FlipChart This will help your leaders discover how productivity can increase, how turnover can decrease, and how to maximize the potential in everyone at your business.

LEADERSHIP

Evolve Your Leadership™

COMMUNICATION

We can teach you and your team about your preferred learning styles and the need to communicate in other styles to meet the needs of everyone. We'll increase your awareness of the blocks and filters that hamper your ability to effectively get your message across as you want it to. Find out how body language and tone can totally alter or change the intention of the words you speak.

TEAM BUILDING

You'll experience activities that will demonstrate how your team performs in exercises of communication, listening, group collaboration, and trust. See how individuals can bring their own unique skills and strengths to work collectively and succeed as a group. Study the four stages of team development and understand how each level builds upon the previous foundation for growth.

GENERATIONAL DIVERSITY

Discover the six common traits of all generations, and the benefits of having technology lovers embrace old school methods of working and vice versa. Learn the motivating characteristics of each of the generations to keep them fully engaged and contributing to your organization. Find out how you can effectively begin the transfer of knowledge before your talent retires or heads out the door.
